Vol. 6.—Third Year. VICTORIA, B. C., THURSDAY, MAY 19, 1887. No. 111

We try to act square, good people. Dont stare! nor think that we care that competitors blare. We treat the world fair, and carry an air of conviction you'll swear when you visit us where our store shows the rare, richest bargains to spare. Our goods always wear, stand all tug and all tear, our profits are bare, we always will dare our stock to compare with all who despair of trying to bear a candle in air to compete with the fair, honest efforts of merchants who deal on the square.

Night Thoughts.

Many of our readers may find some difficulty in believing that the following exquisitely beautiful verses were written by an incurable patient in the Lunatic Asylum, Toronto. Were it not that they are vouched for by Dr. Clarke, the courteous and efficient superintendent of the institution, we frankly confess we never could believe that they came from any such source:

I love to view thee, beauteous star,
Shining in lustre from afar;
Above earth's ever-varying scene,
Thou sittest tranquil and serene.

Thou dost thy peaceful station keep,
While underneath the dark clouds sweep;
And storms may dash o'er earth and sea,
But storms may never reach to thee.

O, could I mount on studded blue,
And sit serenely there with you,
With what delightful haste I'd go,
And leave this gloomy vale below.

As thus I mused, from yon bright sphere
A voice seemed wafted to my ear;
It spoke—at least to me it spoke—
And thus the pensive silence broke:

Stop, mortal, stop, and think one hour;
While I reflect my Maker's power,
Thou may'st reflect His richest grace;—
Then cease to envy me my place.

Though high in heaven's blue vault I shine,
My nature's lower far than thine,—
And thou may'st glow with purer light
When I am quenched in endless night

My home is in these lower skies,
And I can never higher rise;
But thou may'st soar to climes above,
Reflecting rays of heavenly love.

Around this dusky globe I roll,
Diffusing light from pole to pole;
But thou may'st shine in worlds unknown,
Revolving round Jehovah's throne.

My light is borrowed from the sun,
But thine is from the Holy One;
Thy dream of earthly bliss let go,
And thy superior nature know.

Hereafter let the vulgar talker about the inmates of asylums keep his vulgar tongue still. The writer of these verses and the writer of some others published on Spring—which have been published—prove most conclusively that some of the inmates of asylums have minds incomparably superior to those possessed by many who are considered sane. As one reads these stanzas, and feels their power and beauty, he can scarcely help asking, What is insanity? Clearly the mind that conceived these verses is almost infinitely superior to many minds considered sane.

ODD-FELLOWSHIP.

Grand Master Davies Institutes an Odd Fellow's Lodge

At Kamloops Last Monday—G. L. and other Officers Assisting.

Grand Master J. Davies, accompanied by P. G. M. Roberts, Grand Secretary Davey, Bro. J. G. Taylor, P.G., and Bro. Ragazzoni, returned last night by the Princess Louise from Kamloops where they have instituted "Tatnai" (to give) Lodge, No. 9, I.O.O.F. They were ably assisted in this work by Bro. Wm. McColl, P.G.M., of New Westminster Lodge No. 3, and Bro. J. C. Henderson, of Excelsior Lodge, No. 7, Chilliwhack. "Tatnai" Lodge starts out under the most favorable auspices, it does eight charter members, and during the visit of the Grand Lodge officers, 25 of the most influential inhabitants of Kamloops were elected to membership, of whom 10 were initiated and received the degrees. The lodge room, which is situated at the eastern end of the town, near the railway depot, has been built specially for this purpose, and is over the office of the Inland Sentinel. It is 24x30, and has two ante rooms 10x12. The rooms are handsomely furnished and carpeted and presented an attractive appearance, being decorated with choice flowers in pots and banners wrought by the fair fingers of the wife of one of the members. The lodge has the most complete and expensive outfit and paraphernalia of any lodge in the province. The Grand Lodge officers arrived at 4 o'clock on Monday morning, and after a short repose commenced the performance of their duties at 10 o'clock a. m., by the dedication of the hall to the purpose of Odd Fellowship, in accordance with the impressing ceremonial prescribed for such occasions. Then followed the installation of the lodge under a dispensation granted by the Grand Master, who, at the completion of the ceremony, delivered a very eloquent address on the principles and objects of Odd Fellowship, concluding with some wholesome advice to the new lodge. The lodge then proceeded to elect its officers, and the following were duly installed in their respective chairs: W Edmunds, N G; F Schenk, V G; S Clarke, M D, Rec Secty; J T Edwards, Treasurer; E H Jones, Permt Secty; Jas Vair, W; G Loney, Con; D Robertson, O G; A Mowatt, I G; R Mee, R S N G; S Woods, L S N G; A Mathieson, R S V G; J Blair, L S V G; A J Tunstall, M D, R S S; R E Smith, L S S.

The venerable O. G., Bro. Duncan Robertson, was one of the few Odd Fellows in Victoria, who in 1858 formed themselves into an Odd Fellows' Association for the purpose of assisting distressed brothers who came to this country in those exciting times.

As an instance of the enthusiasm felt by the members of the new lodge, it may be related that its present presiding officer came to Victoria at his own expense for the purpose of being initiated, in order to become a charter member of the lodge; with such material it is safe to prophesy a successful career for the young lodge.

Kamloops was en fete on this occasion, bunting being displayed on all the flag poles in the town. On Tuesday evening the Grand Lodge officers and visiting brethren were entertained at a banquet at the Cosmopolitan Hotel, at which 41 persons sat down. The table was tastefully decorated and literally groaned under the weight of the delicacies supplied. The menu was excellent and reflected great credit on mine host Edwards; in fact, it was asserted by an authority on the subject that the spread had not been equalled in the province since the days of Rmgo. The solids having been disposed of, then followed the feast of reason and the flow of soul; everything went pleasantly and the company were beginning to unbend and relax; a youthful visitor was entertaining the guests with a fine rendition of the appropriate song "Ten Thousand Miles Away" (from Victoria) in the chorus of which the company joined with zest, when the whistle of the inexorable engine was heard and a stampede occurred not paralleled since the eve of Waterloo. Such a hurrying to and fro, such a hunt for hats, overcoats and valises! Those who were nearest the window took advantage thereof, and made their exit through it. At last all were on board the train, and left amidst a furore of excitement, the inhabitants crowding the sidewalk cheering, singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows" and waving their hats, much to the astonishment of the other passengers on the train. The visitors return with a very high opinion of the hospitality and kindness of the good people of Kamloops; in ecstacies with the magnificent scenery along the line of railroad, the excellent road and the courtesies of the railway officials, and especially thankful to Mr. Brown, the genial passenger agent, who was most kind and accommodating to the travelers.

INNOCENTS ABROAD.

A Few Notes of a Trip to Kamloops. Two Incidents.

Many amusing adventures are told by the party returning from Kamloops from which we select the following:

A liberal member of the party took three other thirsty souls into "Carson's Saloon" for the purpose of quenching the said thirst. All being set, the treater threw half a dollar on the counter in liquidation of the debt. "You must come and see me again," says genial Jim. "Oh! yes," rejoined the unsophisticated Victorian, "we shall be here some time and we will drop in again." Jim found that his hint was not sufficiently pointed, so he adds: "I mean you must come down with another four bits," and then it dawned on the young man from the premier city that drinks were two bits each in this distant, town where they still adhere to the traditions of '58 and '62.

"North Bend, twenty minutes for breakfast," shouts the polite conductor as he passes through the cars at 4:20 o'clock in the morning. The train pulls up at the said station, where the C. P. R. have established a dining room for the accommodation of the traveling public. It takes some time to reach the dining room, so that the net time allowed for the consumption of the meal is considerable less than that announced. "What will you take for breakfast," asks the liveried waiter of one of our citizens, who after perusing the elegant menu presented to him, orders ham and eggs. A number of small dishes are placed before him, one oval dish being covered by the customary cover, but the ham was not forthcoming. After a display of forbearance of a very commendable order, our friend waited patiently for the coming of the ham, but the precious moments gliding perceptibly by. At last the omniscient waiter descried our patient friend and, walking up to him, he politely enquired if he could bring him anything further. "Yes," says the diffident one, "you can fetch along the ham I ordered." "Why its underneath the eggs," exclaimed the astonished waiter, and there it was found concealed, but proved to be bacon instead of ham, and for which the soulless corporation exacted 75 cents.

NOTES FROM LADNER'S.

A Progressive Settlement — The Fraser River Valley — Farming Lands.

THE TIMES' correspondent at Ladner's Landing writes that McNeeley's new hotel is about completed. It is a two-storey building, 30x27, and will be furnished and finished in a first-class substantial manner.

The saw mill of the Messrs. Burr Bros. will be in operation in a few days.

Mr. Robinson, who lately arrived with the Chester Colony, has about completed his store, which will be a commodious, attractive one. It is to be fitted up for a general business.

Mr. T. H. Ladner is building another store, whilst Mr. Guichon is increasing his considerably.

It is reported that Mr. J. D. Pemberton has decided upon subdividing his estate into small lots of 100 acres each, and sell these to settlers for farming purposes on reasonable terms of payment.

Messrs. Reilly and Patterson who purchased the Wadhams estate a short time ago, are also about to subdivide this fine property. It contains 1600 acres of as choice land as is to be found in the Delta. It is reported their terms are so reasonable that ere many months pass away a small colony will be established at Mud Bay. The soil is very productive and as good roads lead to it, as well as being convenient to the landing for shipping purposes, the land will yet become valuable and the locality a highly desirable one.

The Colquhon farm has been sold to a Dutch company, who are going to colonize it with German settlers—a desirable industrious class—at an early date.

Throughout the district are being erected fine residences, substantial barns and serviceable outhouses. Mr. Farrell's new residence, near the landing, is one of the best in the province.

Gen. Twigg and a party are meandering through the district, making a thorough inspection of it with the view of making a selection of a tract of land for general farming and stock raising purposes.

The season has been a backward one for agricultural purposes. The breadth ploughed and seeded is not as large as it would have been had the season proved more favorable. The grass and hay so far promise well, the warm weather and recent showers helping it very much. The spring crops are breaking through the ground and so far the frosts have done but little injury. The stock wintered well, many of them having received nothing beyond what they picked out. Those that were stall fed are in good form. The outlook upon the whole is encouraging for the old as well as the new settler, the indications being that we shall have plenty for men and beast.

At the Landing there is a cash market for every class of farm produce—a matter of great convenience to our settlers as well as consumers, both of whom come in contact here without the middle men's profits having to be shared at the expense of the consumer.

THE YUKON EXPEDITION.

What the Minister of the Interior Says.

In May last Messrs. J. C. Phinney & Co., bankers and brokers, of Seattle, Washington Territory, wrote to the department stating that they were satisfied, from explorations conducted on their behalf, that the valley of the Yukon lying within Canadian territory was rich in mineral deposits, that they intended erecting a quartz mill there, that they desired to obtain definite titles both for their mining locations and for the land necessary for their mills and reduction works, and that they had information that probably a thousand men would be engaged on the river and its tributaries in mining adventure during the year. In view of the facts elicited, and of other information, the joint geological and topographical expedition, under Dr. G. M. Dawson, already referred to by THE TIMES, was organized and started on its mission. In addition to the objects of the expedition previously stated, Mr. Ogilvie will make an investigation of the probable position of the boundary line between Alaska and British Columbia in the Kotusk Mountains, as well as a preliminary determination of the point where the 141st meridian, the international boundary, crosses the Yukon. He will also connect the two terminal points mentioned by an accurate survey of the Yukon River, and if it is possible to make arrangements to that effect, he will winter somewhere in the neighborhood of Belle Isle for the purpose of making certain astronomical determinations, and also the series of observations, magnetic, meteorological, and otherwise, conducted at stations of the International Polar Commission. The work thus outlined will probably be found of great practical value in the determination of the boundary between Canada and the Territory of Alaska. Both Dr. Dawson and Mr. Ogilvie are furnished with authority to take the statements and sworn depositions of miners and others wishing to record mining claims within the territory, and to forward these to the nearest agent of Dominion Lands as prescribed by the mining regulations, so that in regard to at least a part of the country, immediate opportunity will be furnished for the establishment of the right which attaches to priority of mineral discovery and record.

Stealing Flowers

If the youth who stole a pansy plant from a garden on Cook street, a few days ago, will visit the premises again he will be presented with the plants he pulled up and left behind in his hurry. He need not fear arrest, or any unpleasantness of that kind, as the owner has a high respect for audacity, and would feel honored if he could make the thief's acquaintance. The teachers in the central school, however, might devote a little more time to teaching that portion of the young idea which imbibes its moral training at that seat of learning the grammatical construction of the commandment "Thou Shalt Not Steal." In inculcating syntax they might unconsciously lie laying sin.

RAILWAY BELT TIMBER.

The License System—Mr. Higginson's Report.

We take the following information from the blue book issued by the Minister of the Interior: The system of disposing of licenses for timber lands, irrespective of the situation of the land or the character of the timber, by public competition, has now been in operation for about two years. In the Rocky Mountain region, within which, except in the case of one or two pioneer applicants, no limits were disposed of at any time except by competition. There is considerable demand for limits of small area by lumbermen who propose to proceed immediately with the manufacture of timber, and the demand for berths of this description continues not only to be good, but very fair bonuses for the privilege of cutting the timber continue to be offered. The regulations in force in Manitoba and the Northwest apply to all timber lands in the railway belt in British Columbia as far west as the 120th meridian of longitude, which intersects the railway belt half way between the western end of the Shuswap Lakes and Kamloops, this being the point west of which it is believed any timber cut and manufactured is likely to find its way for export to the Pacific Ocean rather than eastward to the territories. West of the 120th meridian the regulations are framed with a view to meeting the requirements of the trade; those in force in regard to lands along the Pacific coast being practically the same as the provincial timber laws, which were framed to meet the exigencies of the export trade to South America. Even in this belt, however, the modes of conducting the trade are gradually changing, the advent of the railway having rendered necessary the adoption of methods approximating much more nearly than before to those which obtain in the eastern provinces. The mill owners are increasing the cutting capacity of their saw mills, and it has been found necessary to double the maximum area which under the provincial laws and our first regulations might be held by any one license; that is to say, the area has been made 2,000 acres instead of 1,000.

Mr. T. S. Higginson, Crown timber agent for British Columbia, reports every reason to look hopefully to the future expansion of the trade. In addition to the 75,000,000 feet cut by the railway company, the Royal City Planing Mill cut 11,994,798 feet; Dominion Saw Mill, 3,929,000; W. C. McDougall, 1,126,885; J. B. Tiffin, 874,750; Wm. Jones, 3,500,000 or a total of nearly 100,000,000 in the railway belt, for the year ending 31st of October 1886. The receipts by Mr. Higginson were: Bonuses, $1,283.50; ground rent, $40; permit fees and dues, $1,605.39; seizures, dues and fines for trespass, $3,247.77; total, $9,156.66.

SABBATH DESECRATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—How long will the moral and Christian-loving people of Victoria suffer the outrageous and disgraceful desecration of the Sabbath day which now prevails? Let every parent remember that his or her child is being brought every week under this blighting influence. There are a few incidents, for the truth of which I vouch, which occurred on the Sabbath day in this city, whose proud boast is that she is one of the brightest diadems in the crown of a Christian queen.

Four boys, about 16 years of age, sons of respectable church-going people, were passing along Broad street, after having been to Sabbath school, and were seen by other boys and girls in conversation with the prostitutes who frequent that street, and apparently thought they were doing a very brave thing in open day.

Several young men, sons of Christian parents, were found in a main street saloon drinking, at the hour when their parents were at church and supposed them there as well. But this is nothing new; it can be seen every Sunday.

Several boys and girls were given collections for Sabbath school, but instead of putting the money on the plate in school, they spent it for candies at a candy store on their way to Sabbath school. This is also a common occurrence.

Some boys were sent to Sabbath school and their trusting parents supposed they had gone. But had they happened at Beacon Hill they would have found them either engaged playing ball or watching the game.

Where all was dark and no one could see, some young men were known to skulk through Chinatown and dodge into a notorious den.

In no other part of Her Majesty's Empire would such things be tolerated on the Sabbath. Let us drop the name Christian and no longer call ourselves British, while are openly tolerated that which would bring the blush of shame to the best and noblest sovereign England ever knew, and which can but be visited sooner or later by most visible tokens of the displeasure of Providence. You shall hear from me again.

ARGUS.

WORKINGMEN, AVOID CARIBOO.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—In looking over the Colonist of the 29th ult., I read an item under the head of "Plenty of Labor," which to say the least of is not true. The writer, referring to newspaper talk about laboring men leaving the province, writes: "Well I wish a couple of hundred of them would come up this way, where they could get plenty of work at $3 per day. They could board themselves for $25 per month, etc." Now, Mr. Editor, it is little less than a crime, and a mean one at that, for any man, and much more so, when the author is represented to the world as being a "responsible business" man, to try, by such false statements, to induce poor men to strive to get here, where, none know better than the author but a very limited number could find employment if they were here now, and no reasonable probability that half the number named could be profitably employed during this jubilee year. Though no one would like better than the writer of this, to see quartz a success, I am sorry to say that as far as developments show, there is room for doubt. For resolving gold from sulphurets, by assay, and then by "working" process, are very different, at least such has been the experience in many localities. In conclusion, I would warn any man who has not a few hundred dollars to spare, and willing to take a chance in gravel mining, which, so far, has been the main stay of Cariboo, to [illegible], Mr. Editor, some of this locality, coming, and express [illegible] effect.

KING MOB IN TORONTO.

O'Brien Receives Exceedingly Rough Treatment in Toronto.

Has to Flee for his Life—A Score Seriously Injured.

TORONTO, May 19.—Treasurer Testy, of the local branch of the National League, sent the following telegram to the leaders of the league in New York and Chicago: O'Brien was mobbed in the streets of Toronto by Orangemen. J. M. Wall, of the New York Tribune, was seriously wounded. O'Brien said to the Associated Press representatives, Lansdowne has now done his worst. His policemen actually surrendered us to a mob and had we not taken refuge in a bicycle shop we would have been killed.

O'Brien will speak in Ottawa to-morrow and in Kingston on Friday.

He speaks to-day in visiting several of the Catholic institutions in the city. He declares to-night that he will certainly go to St. Catharines and that the more the Orangemen oppose him the longer he will stay in Toronto.

The incursion of O'Brien, the Irish agitator, seems to have passed. On Canadian politics it is thought it will have an important bearing on future of parties in the Dominion. The Catholics also who spoke regretfully in regard to the Fenian invasion of twenty years ago don't speak so now.

Orangemen who talked in a determined manner about O'Brien's invasion say that if he attempts to speak here again he will probably pay the penalty with his life. Orangemen seem to fear that they have committed a blunder in not having attacked the speaker and disturbing the meeting, but in not having done so half well enough. As an evidence that the Orangemen are so solid against O'Brien is furnished for publication today with the remark: "Look at that, boys. The most powerful indictment that has yet been drawn up against Lansdowne and his rowdy defenders, and the most powerful vindication of my action in this matter. The letter is from Orangemen signed Acezon, in which O'Brien is upheld and the action of Lansdowne denounced.

At 11:30 President J. B. Mulligan, of the local branch of the National League, called at the Rossin hotel and asked O'Brien to go out and have a walk. D. P. Cahill, Dennis Killbride, evicted tenants, and J. N. Wall, special correspondent of the New York Tribune, were present and suggested that it would not be prudent to venture out as darkness had fallen and a crowd of about two hundred rowdies had gathered about the hotel hissing and groaning. O'Brien, however, persisted in going. The crowd grew in number and surged up to the very spot where O'Brien and others were standing. They groaned and hissed into O'Brien's face with cries of "Away, away, traitor," "Down with the dynamiter," and "God Save the Queen." A riot seemed imminent, as Orangemen were armed with stout sticks, just as they were at the meeting in the Queen's Park. They came up to O'Brien and he strode along York street to King, and jostled against him, making several attempts to strike him on the head. He dodged their blows and his friends rallied around him, but they were as one to fifty. Two policemen stood near, but made no effort to disperse the mob. As the party turned into Bay street, Cahill had his hat knocked off by a stone. Now the Orangemen began their real attack, for Bay St. offered a good opportunity, being almost covered with bricks and cobblestones. O'Brien had on a tall hat which furnished a good target. Wall was on his right Kilbride and Mulligan on the left. "Look out O'Brien," shouted Wall, "stones are coming; it's Belfast over again." "It's all right," replied O'Brien. "It would be better for Lansdowne if they let us alone." As he spoke a volley of bricks came flying from Orangemen, grazing not only heads, but also knocking plastering off the adjacent walls. Shouts of "to h— with the Pope," "kill the traitor," and so on rose high above the din. O'Brien and his party were still on the sidewalk and the Orangemen thronging the street. D. T. Kellogg, reporter of the New York Sun, now rushed behind O'Brien, and was about to warn him, when a stone struck O'Brien's hat and picked it off. O'Brien stooped his head and Wall, who was standing by, turned his head to look in the direction from whence the missiles came, when a huge stone struck him on the side of the head and stumbled him heels over head. He was carried to a drug store, where his wounds were dressed. O'Brien attempted to take refuge in Sharp's laundry, and failing in that rushed to a bicycle store adjoining. A volley of stones shattered the windows and the mob burst into the store, acting like demons, and showered missiles in every direction in which O'Brien was. Some ladies and old women screamed and fainted, while the mob tumbled pell mell over the machines, smashing them one against another in their savage fury and amid cries of "Kill the traitor," "Hang him," "Lansdowne forever." O'Brien, however, was safely led away by an officer and reached his hotel in safety. Cahill was knocked down and received severe cuts. More than a score of persons are more or less seriously injured.

O'BRIEN LEAVES FOR OTTAWA.

O'Brien and Mr. Dennis Kilbride left here this morning for Ottawa. When they arrived at the Union station they found a crowd of about 100 persons waiting them. O'Brien stepped upon the near car platform and delivered a brief address. He was greeted with mingled groans and cheers.

TO APPEAR IN HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, May 19.—O'Brien is going to lecture here on Monday night under the auspices of the local branch of the Irish National League.

MUST BE VINDICATED.

TORONTO, May 19.—The Globe of this morning in commenting on yesterday's disturbances says: The ruffians of yesterday's proceedings have undoubtedly and certainly unexpectedly thrown over O'Brien a volume of public sympathy which he would not otherwise possibly have obtained. With all his eloquence and courage he appealed to the mob to vain. He stands now identified with the same. Free speech in Canada, freedom to walk the streets and freedom to indicate his opinion and those of common rights must be vindicated at any necessary trouble or cost. The comments of the other papers are in the same strain.

The steamer Tasmania, wrecked off Corsica, contained the horses of Jewels belonging to the Maharajah of Jeddpore.

The steamer La Normandie, from Havre for New York, ran aground near Alexandria. Only 50 cabin passengers and three other were rescued.

SPRING ASSIZES.

(Before Sir M. B. Begbie, C. J.)

WEDNESDAY, May 18.

Regina vs. Hook How. The prisoner was charged with obtaining $10 from Ha Wing, and passing a worthless $50 Alabama bank note representing the same to be good.

Mr. Taylor (Eberts & Taylor) appeared for the prosecution, Messrs. Wilson and Fell for the defence. Mr. Jones was interpreter. The defence was an alibi.

Mr. Gardner and wife swore that the prisoner was at their residence, Spring Ridge, at the time he was charged with passing the note.

The jury found the prisoner not guilty, a verdict in which His Lordship concurred.

LAID OVER.

The case, Regina vs. Wing Ah Chu was laid over for the next assizes, the accused, who is charged with arson being insane and confined in the lunatic asylum.

The jury were relieved of further attendance.

SCHOOL BOUNDARIES.

The Limits Defined—Considerable Enlargement.

In our report yesterday of the School Board meeting, we inadvertently stated that the boundaries of the Victoria City School District had not been altered. We find, however, that the boundary has been extended as follows:

Commencing at the northwest corner of section 5, Victoria district; thence east along the northern boundary line to the northeast corner of said section; thence in a direct line southeasterly to the eastern extremity of the northern boundary line of Victoria City; thence due east to the western boundary line of section 28; thence south to the central point of the western boundary line of section 76; thence due east to the sea shore at Oak Bay; thence southerly and westerly, following the sea shore and crossing Victoria Harbor, to the southeast corner of section 82, Esquimalt District; thence north to the northeast corner of said section; thence easterly along the southern boundary line of section 10 of said district to the shore line; thence across the Arm to the point of commencement.

This takes in all the Indian Reserve and Victoria West, part of Craigflower road and property on the Burnside road and the Arm, part of the Work estate, and continues as far out to the last as Oak Bay.

Tourist's Map of Victoria.

Mr. J. B. Ferguson, manager of the B. C. Stationery Company, has left on our table a pocket map of Victoria and its environs. All the streets, blocks and prominent places of business are shown. There is also a key index to the most prominent places of business. This is a very handy map and will be found of considerable value to the business community as well as to tourists and others.

Tours in Britain.

Messrs. Hall & Gospel, city agents for the Anchor line of Ocean steamships here received a supply of a neat attractive pamphlet entitled "Tours in England, Ireland and Scotland: Where to Go and What to See." Views are from the Giant's Causeway and the Giant's Head, Kingstown Harbor, the Bromielaw bridge, Glasgow, Loch Katrine, Calender and Ben Sedi, Oban, Glencoe, Edinburgh Castle, Holyrood, Knox House, Abbotsford, Warwick, Dethaam, Windsor, and Balmoral Castle, as well as interesting descriptive letter press.

Music At The Hill.

The band of H. M. S. Triumph under the leadership of Sig. Antonio Agius will perform the following selections at Beacon Hill, Saturday:

Fas Bedouine	Rapellinie
	F. Vinetal.

Catalogue for 1887.

Messrs. Nicholles & Renouf have issued their annual catalogue for 1887. It embraces 134 pages of illustrated letter press, descriptive of the various articles in tools, implements and farming machinery this interesting firm are offering for sale, full supplies of which they constantly keep in stock. The work is well gotten up throughout. It is from the press of Mr. Munro Miller, Johnson street.

Married.

Mr. Fred H. Robson, manager of Mr. J. A. Mara's mercantile establishment at Kamloops, was married at New Westminster on Wednesday to Miss Mattie M. Matthews, second daughter of S. C. Matthews, of Brantford, Ont. The presents to the bride were numerous and costly, and included a gold and watch dressing case containing a purse with $100 in gold. Mr. and Mrs. Robson at once left for their home in Kamloops.

Accidental.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death, in the case of the man Wm. H. Fromes, who was killed last week by being thrown from a car on the Wellington extension.

English Window Glass, 16 oz., all sizes; also Stained and Enamelled Glass, at Muirhead and Mann's Sash and Door Factory.

Clothing Identified.

The blood-stained clothing found in Crawford's house, near Ladner's Landing has been identified by a man who formerly worked for the prisoner, as the latter's property. The prisoner's position is becoming darker every day.

Victoria, Thursday, May 19, 1887.

TURN THEM OUT.

The Council, at its meeting last night, was again about to stultify itself on the reservoir question, and was only saved from further disgrace by the action of three of its members, who retired from the room and left the sore-heads in a minority. The story of this reservoir question, if written out in all its details, would show how personal animosities are permitted to subordinate public interests; and it would further illustrate how certain individuals are sent to ride straight to the devil when they are foisted by a few ward clamors upon the back of the municipal Pegasus. It is more than likely that it will be necessary to publish, in consecutive order, the various resolutions and reports, adopted and again rejected by the Council, upon this question, but at the present time we will content ourselves with stating briefly how the matter stands.

The proposition to increase the water supply of the city by an extension of the present works has been before the ratepayers for several years, and by two authorized votes of the ratepayers the scheme has received the sanction of the people. The system of high and low reservoirs was no less admired, and the scheme has become familiarly known as Hasell's, because first suggested and elaborated by our water-works engineer. When Mr. Fteeres, of Watchaven, Eng., was here in connection with the sewerage question, he examined and reported upon this scheme, and not only endorsed it but expressly recommended its adoption. On the 24th of August, 1885, a by-law for $75,000 was submitted to the ratepayers, and carried by a majority of 1,200 votes. This by-law—which was specially to carry out the proposals submitted to the people—was adopted. Since that time practically little or nothing has been done except a few contractors have proved more generously that system and water-mains are not the proper qualifications for an impartial committee. It duty at the present board. Motions to proceed with the work have been carried only to be rescinded at a succeeding meeting. Reports from the Water Commissioner and consulting engineer have been presented and adopted, but their recommendations have never been carried out. It has been a continued series of vacillation, half-hearted and disgraceful shuffling, every time the matter was raised, and all for the purpose of defeating the scheme for which it. Because a man named Hasell had the credit for having formulated it? Only that and nothing more. Common honesty of opinion that wooden mains is preferable to the reservoir system, and opposes it for that and possibly another reason. Councillors and Boards enforcedly indicate too clearly during their interminable harangues that they have stronger motives in opposing the work than could possibly spring from any mental process of reasoning on the merits of the scheme. There is their one cue—the red flag to their bulldog—Dan Rogers is nothing with the matter, and says the hands of the malcontents. Naturally a trickster he cannot be expected to do otherwise. With him it is either rule or ruin, and no citizen is too unlucky if he believes it will lend to further his mercenary ends.

There will be no end to this disgraceful state of affairs as long as a majority of the council are dependent upon wards for their seats. The scheme will never be built if these personal assaults on the public press are allowed to continue unchecked. Let the people express their opinion upon the question at the polls. Turn them out.

Out of a total importation by the Dominion during the fiscal year ending 30th June, 1887, of goods amounting in value to $110,000,000, 37.6 per cent. was free goods such as raw materials, etc., and the remaining 62.4 per cent. dutiable goods. The following is the import trade in

DRASTIC JUDICIAL UTTERANCES.

Nearly the whole of Tuesday was occupied by the Supreme Court in trying the case of a young man, a member of a prominent and influential family residing in Saanich, who was charged with having committed a rape upon the person of a fourteen-year-old girl, the daughter of a neighboring farmer. In the course of the afternoon the case was given to the jury, who after having been out for nearly two hours returned into court with a verdict, finding the prisoner guilty with intent to commit rape, and he was accordingly sentenced by the Chief Justice to two years in the penitentiary, this being the minimum penalty prescribed by the statute in such cases. Happily the commission of such crimes and the trial of such cases are of extremely rare occurrence in this province, and under the direction of the court, and in the interest of good morals, publication of the particulars of this case, so far as they relate to the commission of the act and attendant circumstances, is necessarily withheld, but apart from the "indecencies," which are inseparable from such legal investigations, the trial in question presented certain other features of a character at once so grave and startling, that our duty to the public, as journalists, will not permit their being passed unnoticed. We refer to the manner in which the case was conducted by the Crown. This became so painfully apparent to all who watched the progress of the case that it evoked the burning indignation of His Lordship, who then and there set his seal of reprobation upon the farcical methods of the prosecuting attorney, by declaring that the greatest imbecile to be found would have conducted the case as well. The language thus used was considered strong, but coming as a judicial utterance during the progress of a very serious and painful trial, our readers can readily imagine that the use of such strong and scathing terms was provoked by no ordinary cause. The conduct of the crown prosecutor is inexplicable. If it is not attributable to carelessness or inefficiency, then it must be due to something unmeasurably worse. True, the brother of the unfortunate young man is a member of the Local Legislature and a thick and thin supporter of the powers that be. The attorney, so denounced judicially, is a creature of these "powers," and the Hon. John Robson, the great wire-puller, sat close to the said attorney, frequently conversing with him during the progress of the trial. Why did he sit there, or why was he present at the trial? As Minister of Education, surely he could not be there to study or "to inculcate the highest morality." If there, not to gratify a prurient taste, he was certainly there, and why? One thing seems to be very clear, and that is that when it becomes necessary for the Chief Justice to condemn the conduct of Crown cases in such strong terms, it points unmistakably to gross inefficiency in the administration of that department of the public service, or to something infinitely worse.

THE DOMINION ESTIMATES.

In the estimates of the Dominion for the financial year ending 30th June, 1888, the following sums are embraced for expenditure within this province:

An increase of $10,550 over the previous year.
Total	$729,202 16

The supplementary estimates yet to be brought down will possibly embrace a sum for the improvement of the Victoria harbor, as well as restoring the usual subsidy to the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, whose vessels ply weekly between this port and San Francisco. We are of the opinion, however, that there will be some difficulty in obtaining the consent of the government in this matter. When the subsidy was first granted there was no Northern Pacific nor California and Oregon Railways, nor our own great national highway. The mail matter reaching Victoria by the Pacific Coast Steamship line is an insignificant one as compared with the one received by the other routes. Then the Sound ports, were likewise unimportant and some guarantee, in the shape of a subsidy, had to be granted in order to secure a regular mail service between San Francisco and this city. The opening of the Canadian all-rail route, with agencies all over the coast, has already changed the channels of commerce between the two seaboards to such an extent that many are of the opinion a subsidy now is unnecessary. By others it is contended that the maintenance of a service to San Francisco formed part of the union agreement, and insist upon the same being continued. Several other items have disappeared from the estimates. The increase in the Indian grant is large, being over $25,000; the total sum now voted being $78,425, an amount equal to $2 per head of the estimated Indian population. The Indian account all over the Dominion is becoming an expensive, if not an extravagant one.

Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness and Hay Fever.

Sufferers are not generally aware that these diseases are contagious, or that they are due to the presence of living parasites in the lining membrane of the nose and eustachian tubes. Microscopic research, however, has proved this to be a fact, and the result is that a simple remedy has been formulated whereby catarrh, catarrhal deafness and hay fever are cured in from one to three simple applications made at home. A pamphlet explaining this new treatment is sent free on receipt of stamp, by A. H. Dixon & Son, 305 King street West, Toronto, Canada.—Christian Standard.

WOMAN AND HOME.

HIGHEST TYPE OF WOMANHOOD IN THE ENGLISH MIDDLE CLASS.

Cookery for Children—Kissing Games. Hats at the Theatre—Comfort the Mother Hears—Nourishment in an Egg. Kitchen Dignity—Stray Paragraphs.

"In the great middle class of England we find the highest type of womanhood and her saving grace. In health and physique these women are models worthy of our admiration and emulation. It is with rare exceptions that the tourist sees a pale faced, puny, sickly looking, spindle waisted, panting, fainting English woman. The pink and white complexion, the clear eye, the well rounded waist, the firm tread, bespeak perfect bodily health. Many of these women take their summer outing in long walks across the fields, that they may view nature in all its grandeur and simplicity, instead of rushing from shop to dressmaker and packing Saratoga trunks for days or weeks before "taking a rest." They don a tidy flannel walking costume, fill a hand basket with a few toilet articles, and start on their walking or tricycle tour over the charming roads, making detours, as they fancy, over the heaths. It is not uncommon to see a double tricycle with husband and wife riding through the country for their vacation. Doubtless the good health of these women is due largely to their outdoor exercise. In this class will be found the best of housemakers, the broad minded philanthropists and reformers and the happiest and most useful wives, mothers and spinsters.

The English wife in this class is no drudge; she commands a retinue of servants that would appall the American husband on domestic pay day. The standing of a family socially depends somewhat upon the number of servants employed. "We could easily manage our household service with one servant," said a model mother to me, "but son and daughters would rather economize in other ways and keep two maids for the appearance of the thing." The irregularity, the timely luncheon of the English household would make a drudge of the head were it not for the numbers of servants usually employed. I have been most delightfully entertained in several charming, perfectly ordered homes of men engaged in large manufacturing interests, and find that the usual retinue of servants consists of a cook, house maid, nurse, governess, gardener, groom and valet. The scarcity of labor keeps these servants respectful and attentive, and their "character" depends upon the length of time they serve one master. This makes commanding and serving much less annoying than with us in America, where the help expects to rule or ruin. If the mistress of this manse is given to benevolence, as she usually is, she employs a woman philanthropist to read the Bible and visit the sick, the afflicted or the fallen with messages of consolation, the loaf or the bunch of flowers, as the case may require.

The zeal and magnitude of charities carried on by this class of women in the cities of England is beautiful to contemplate. Considering the great demoralization of the masses throughout the British Empire, it appears to me that these women, and their hearty co-laborers, their husbands, fathers and brothers, are holding up by main force the whole structure of British society. They are usually devoted to church duties, the church leading rather than following in works of reform and charity. I am pleased to note the absence of pilious cant in their conversation and methods; they do not expect the Lord to serve them as their apprentice, but with an executive ability born of real and common sense they apply the law as laid down in His word. There is an entire absence of silly small talk and affectation among them, which gives place to genial, philanthropic or political subjects. Altogether the women of the middle class of England are charming to study and to know.—Home Journal.

Cookery for Children.

Too little attention is paid to the food prepared for children; the care and arrangement is left to servants who are either incompetent themselves or care so little about the matter as to cook it in the manner they find the easiest to themselves. It is of great consequence to fix the times of taking food as well as to regulate the quantity given to a child. The mother should, unless she has servants who can be thoroughly trusted, personally attend to these arrangements; it is her province. There is great danger that an infant under 2 years of age will be overfed if it be left to the discretion of the nurse. These persons, generally, to stop the screaming of a child, whether it proceed from pain or crossness, or repletion (as it often does), give it something to eat—often that which is very injurious, to tempt the appetite; if it will only eat and stop crying they do not care for the future inconvenience which this habit of indulgence may bring on the child and its mother.

Arrange as early as possible the regular times of giving food to children, according to their age and constitution. Young infants require food every two hours when awake; after 3 months old they may go three hours, then cautiously lengthen the time, as the child can bear it. But remember that all temperaments are not alike. Some of the same age may require more food than others. One rule, however, will apply to all—never give food to amuse a child or keep it quiet when it is not hungry, or to reward it for being good. You may as rationally hope to extinguish a fire by pouring on oil as to cure a peevish temper or to curb a violent one by pampering the appetite for luxuries in diet.—Chicago News.

Kitchen Dignity.

An exceedingly ludicrous and also exasperating incident of the complaint about household service is the statement that the maids are not treated with sufficient dignity. One of the loudest complaints we have heard is that a well bred person, who, deciding to take service, was driven from it through humiliation occasioned by the master of the house standing up before her, without a word, to be helped with his greatcoat, taking the help for granted, as if she were an automaton.

Yet in such a case the maid fails to realize that the more she is treated like an automaton by the gentlemen of the house, the better it is for her. She does not, or she should not, desire to be either a lady—using the word technically, and with no reflection on her good manners—or an individual with them, and the prouder and more high spirited she is, the more readily she should perceive this. With the women of the household it is a very different matter, and it would be a household so far out of the common sort as to have escaped our notice where the female members did not put their serving women on a friendly footing, take a personal interest in their affairs, help them through their difficulties "and respect their individuality."—Harper's Bazar.

The Chestnut Bell Outdone.

The inventor of the chestnut bell was before the patent office yesterday endeavoring to patent an improvement on his previous atrocious invention. The improvement consists of an attachment, which will probably give a new lease of life to the now obsolete chestnut bell. The new device consists of an elastic band connected with the bell, but fastened to the other side of the waistcoat. When the bell is struck a miniature rat runs across the breast of the wearer and stops in full view of the victim. To make it more effective, the word "rats" in white letters on a black background is inscribed on the rat. The inventor wanted a patent that would cover not only the device, but the Kissing as an Amusement.

It may be asserted in a general way, that wherever in the United States you do not find dancing, you find kissing. In communities where dancing was disapproved I have seen "sorting games" called for and carried into practice at entertainments held in school houses and even at church socialibles. In such places church members and, for aught I know, deacons, take part in the amusement; and I have seen it develop a friskiness, so to speak, in grizzled men, which made them, one would say, anything but seductive or beguiling to the young and fair. Among those of earlier years kissing becomes in such communities a systematic pursuit, like hunting or fishing. Young girls whose parents object to it are neglected or disliked; a young man in such a village told a friend of mine, with some indignation, that she was the only girl in town whom he had not kissed.

It is of no use to object to it as immoral where the church members are committed to it. Perhaps it cannot be called immoral, but when society has reached a certain stage of refinement these games vanish. The symbol of that increased refinement is usually dancing. Dancing, whatever its drawbacks, serves practically as the antidote to kissing games; where one begins the other dies out. They do not seem to flourish side by side; at any rate, people rarely go back from dancing to kissing. Granting, for the sake of argument, that it is necessary to have some amusement, the choice lies, in our villages and scattered families, between these two forms of relaxation. Which is the better of the two?—Harper's Bazar.

Charming Tricycle Riders.

Two very pretty and very stylish looking young ladies have been making a decided sensation on the avenue by their dexterous riding of the tricycle. Both are remarkably pretty and wear handsome street costumes. One of them wears a gentleman's high silk hat, the only difference being that it is turned up on one side and has a little black feather in it. Her cloth dress fits her trim figure exquisitely, and on her wee, pretty foot she wears a long boot, like a backwoodsman. The top of her boot hides her pretty ankle, but the convenience obviates many of the objections raised to ladies riding tricycles. Her companion wears a Tam O'Shanter cap, which falls prettily about her head. Both the high silk hat and the Tam O'Shanter are kept on the ladies heads by long, flat pins, and they go flying up the avenue without fear of losing their headgear. They each own a single tricycle, and use them in the morning, but in the evening, when the avenue is crowded, they ride a double tricycle, and cause many of the congressmen's hearts, and senators', too, by the way, to go pit-a-pat in unison with the girls' daintily booted feet on the pedals.—Washington Cor. Baltimore American.

A Censure Partly Undeserved.

There is a good deal said about the idleness and so on of American young women, the daughters of parents who are well to do in the world, which is undeserved. Because a girl is fond of life and its active pleasures, because she dances, is deeply interested in dress, goes to many entertainments and has what she herself calls "an awfully jolly time," in no wise is this evidence that she cannot mix with all these lighter undertakings real hard work. We do not refer altogether to the endless little things which occur at home and which would cause growling and grumbling if they were left undone. But no one who has not been on the inside has any conception of how much the girls do to help their mothers and ease the burdens of their elders. The great and most popular of society girls are not free from these duties, and they are usually taken as a matter of course. They are undertaken without a thought of lazy, discontented repining; as a general thing; when this rule does not apply I pity the man, though he be fifty times a millionaire, who marries the girl. Life is not all rose leaves to them by a very great deal.—Toledo Blade.

A Dangerous Practice.

The practice of allowing children to go out at night to find their own companions and their own places of amusement may leave one in twenty unscathed and without danger; but I think that nineteen out of twenty fall down wounded or destroyed. And if there is one thing that should be more imperative than another, it is that your children shall be at home at night; or that, if they are abroad, you shall be abroad with them. There may be things that it is best that you should do for your children though you would not do them for yourselves; but they ought not to go anywhere at night, to see sights, or to take pleasure, unless you can go with them, until they are grown to man's estate and their habits are formed. And nothing is more certain than that to grant the child liberty to go outside of the parental roof and its restraints in the darkness of night is bad, and only bad, and that continually.—Henry Ward Beecher in New York World.

The Cooking Stove Apostacy.

The religious papers are taking up what some of them call "the cooking stove apostacy." The point of their complaint seems to be that the caterer is gaining ground at the church sociable, and, like the political parties, they call on the country to "view with alarm" a ministry of three orders—pastor, deacons and professional cooks, the last in white vestments, manipulating the ritual of pies and cakes. Well, good brethren, and why not? Did you ever view with alarm the flushed faces of the sisters of the church who have wearied themselves out from time immemorial, bent their backs and risked their tempers preparing the simple meal "for whose restoration you clamor?" If the caterer, with his white vest and white gloves, can relieve some measure of fatigue and worry on the part of the feminine portion of the congregation the church social will serve a better end than it ever has before.—Kansas City Journal.

Busy Men and Women.

A busy woman who must think, who must care for others, whose heart is in her work for others, and whose life cannot be confined within four walls or any harrowing conventionalities, seeks her kind and saves her precious moments by receiving her friends upon one day in the week. The busy man, shut in his office for long hours, harassed by many cares and often flagellated by foes, finds it sweeter and better for the few moments' chat in some attractive home, where beauty, music and flowers give him the needed poetry to make with his prosaic cares.—Chicago Tribune.

Awkward Hours.

A bright and lazy little woman, who was asked to some entertainment from 3 to 5 the other day, sent back word she couldn't go, for she couldn't go to heaven between those hours in the afternoon. And they are awkward hours, when you come to consider it. Only the idiots, the butterflies and the gadabouts truly like this afternoon tea and chocolate visiting. For the workers it is destruction; but then, what right has a working man or woman to "play" before 6 at night?—Boston Herald.

Women as Missionaries.

At Wellesley college eighty young women have expressed a desire to work as foreign missionaries; at Oberlin, about 100 signified the same purpose, and, including all these and other colleges, there are about 400 young women willing to work in the foreign field.—Public Opinion.

The last edict issued by the cultured society of Boston is that the use of pet names should be abandoned. Mamie is now plain Mary,
